5.3 Excursus: The Ashlanders

Apart from the settled Dunmer we also find nomadic Dunmer called "Ashlanders". Most of them belong to tribes, but there are also individuals, who got outcasted from their tribes or whose inclusion is dubious. At present we know the names of eighteen Ashlander tribes: Aharasaplit, Ahemmusa, Ahinanapal, Aidanat, Ashamanu, Bensiberib, Elanius, Erabenimsun, Kaushtababi, Mamshar-Disamus, Massahanud, Mila-Nipal, Salit, Shashmanu, Shashurari, Sobitbael, Yakaridan, Zainab (some count the Velothi among them as well). Of these only four have survived: The Ahemmusa, the Erabenimsum, the Urshilaku and the Zainab. The other tribes became extinct, although their camps still exist, nowadays occupied by outcasts. Among the surviving tribes surnames are exceptional. Here we find only five: Maesa (Urshilaku), Mirpal, Rapli (both Ahemmusa) and Timsar-Dadisun and Zabamat (both Zainab). A historic surname is Mus-Manul. Interestingly it is inverse if we come to the outcast Ashlanders, suddenly all of them bear surnames. Their surnames are unique and do not appear among the settled Ashlanders.

9.3 On Orcish nomenclature

Traditional Orcish names consist of three elements: (1.) The individual's given name and (3.) a parent's name, which is introduced by (2.) the *nasab*¹ "gra" ("Daughter of") or "gro" ("Son of"), depending on the individual's gender. In one specific case we find the nasab "gor": This might be an error, or it could express that the individual's parent is unknown. Then it might be that the individual bears instead of the parent's name its foster-father's name; then the nasab "gor" could mean "foster-son of" (and respectively "gar" = "foster-daughter of"). Furthermore intercourse between Orcs and members of other peoples seems possible, this would explain an orcish name such as the Imperial-Orcish "Optio Bologra" or the more alien "Koffutto Gilgar". In such a case the rules of traditional Orcish nomenclature seem to be invalidate².

¹ Arabic phrase used for nominal elements which express a bearer's degree of relationship.

² Or modified? Each of the above mentioned names seems to contain a classical nasab, now as a suffix: (1) "gra" → Optio Bologra, (2) "gar" → Koffutto Gilgar. If this is true and if we keep the bearers' genders in mind (both male), the nasab must not refer to themselves. In this case the nasab might refer to the bearers' mothers - "Optio Bologra" then could mean "Optio, [born by] Bolo's daughter" and resp. "Koffutto, [born by] Gil's foster-daughter". This would open a large variety of "new" Orcish names.

13. Oblivion Names

Not much is known of the nomenclature of regions outside of Mundus. We do not know where the following names come from – if they are invented by mer and adopted by the Daedra or if they are based on revelation.

13.1 The Daedra Lords or Princes

Since even the Daedra worshippers themselves are not sure about the gender of their lords (e.g. Molag Bal in literature), we give their names in plain alphabetical order.

Azura, Boethiah, Clavicus Vile, Hermaeus Mora, Hircine, Malacath, Mehrunes Dagon, Jyggalag, Mephala, Meridia, Molag Bal, Namira, Nocturnal, Peryite, Sanguine, Sheogorath, Vaernima.

13.2 Names of Aureals (i.e. 'Golden Saints')

Chuna, Desha, Issmi, Kaneh, Staada, Zudeh (presumedly female). Mirel (presumedly male).

13.3 Names of Daedroth

NOTES TO APPENDIX II

¹ Originally classified as "CR", this is the ghost's full name.

² The famous "last living Dwarf".

³ Dagoth Ur's original name is Voryn Dagoth (See Message from Dagoth Ur, TEST I, p. 502), and according to Vivec's explanations the seven ash vampiric Dagoths are his brothers (cf. NET, entry "Dagoth Ur's Servants"); the other Dagoths seem to be only leading servants like Dagoth Gares, the "Sixth House priest" (cf. NET, entry "Sixth House").

⁴ Instead of "Threvul" (the NPC's ID, his chest's ID as well as the regarding cell name read "thervul").

All names are property of Bethesda Softworks Inc., a ZeniMax Media company.
